

Basic Computer Skills Training

A ten-week course is offered in an area eVero knows best - Technology. Individuals enrolled in a Supported Employment Program have been hired and trained by eVero to become Computer Instructors. Basic computer course materials and training resources have been developed by our Computer Instructors with the help of eVero's subject matter experts. Topics covered are Microsoft Word, Excel and exploring the Internet. The goal of the course is to make using a computer a reality for people who are differently abled.

As a partner in the developmental disability community, the eVero Corporation saw a unique need for individuals to become empowered through the use of computers and began a unique initiative – eVero Outreach Training Program. This program helps individuals enhance their marketable job skills and realize their full potential.

The eVero Outreach courses enrich skills and prepare individuals for the first leg of their journey into the workforce. Not only is eVero creating life skills for the students but also for the instructors who are employed by the eVero Corporation.

Interview Skills Seminar

eVero recognizes that the first step toward employment – the interview process – can be a frustrating hurdle. eVero Outreach has designed a program to help individuals learn important job interview skills and present themselves in a professional manner. This six-week course has a two-fold agenda. The first half of the seminar focuses on preparing for interview success by reviewing commonly used interview questions and discussing appearance and presentation. The second half of the seminar features a series of mock interviews with eVero's executive team – because after all, practice makes perfect.
